Christos Papastergiou holds a Diploma and MArch in Architecture (2002) and a postgraduate degree (MSc) in Architecture Design Theory (2004) from the National Technical University of Athens (NTUA), School of Architecture. As scholarship recipient from the Hellenic Republic (IKY), he is currently a candidate in the PhD Architectural Design at the Bartlett School of Architecture. He is co-founder of the practice 'draftworks*architects'. In collaboration with Christiana Ioannou, he has received awards in architectural competitions and his work has been widely exhibited and published. He currently teaches architecture design studios as part-time lecturer at the University of Cyprus and University of Nicosia.

Christos is interested in the context of architecture as performed by the site, the urban environment, nature and the social circumstances. His practice, research and teaching activity aims at linking the context with architectural design. His practice includes competitions, projects with a specific context and site, as well as exhibitions, installations and speculative projects. Interested in the power of architectural media, he uses the drawing and the model as means of architectural expression, conveyors of concepts and complete aesthetic entities. He is currently involved in the academic environment through his ongoing doctoral research, teaching diploma and bachelor architecture design studios, seminars, conferences and exhibitions. With his practice 'draftworks*architects' he is an active architect, with prizes in international architecture competitions and built work.
