

UCY Irish Studies Collective

Director: Dr James Little

Post boxes in Nicosia and Longford, made by the same iron founders.

The UCY Irish Studies Collective provides a focal point in the Eastern Mediterranean for research into all aspects of Irish culture. As part of the European Federation of Associations and Centres of Irish Studies, we belong to a network of more than 50 universities connecting those who work in Irish studies.

Based in Nicosia, the UCY Irish Studies Collective hosts artistic performances, talks and international collaborations incorporating a broad variety of perspectives. Particular research strengths include the work of Samuel Beckett, cultural memory in performance and Irish literatures of the 19th, 20th and 21st centuries.

Members

- Christakis Christofi \(University of Cyprus\)
- Helen Kirwan \(independent artist\)
- James Little \(University of Cyprus\)
- Paul Stewart \(independent scholar\)
- Evy Varsamopoulou \(University of Cyprus\)

Tá fáilte roimh chách ag an gcomharghrúpa!

[All are welcome at the collective!]

<https://www.ucy.ac.cy/irishstudies/>