

University of Cyprus

The Department of Social and Political Sciences and the Laboratory for the Study of Political and Social Behavior Nestor invite you to the following lecture:

Soft landings in hard times?
Reflecting on the attitudinal and behavioral effects of Europe's economic crisis

LECTURER: Quinton Mayne
Assistant Professor
Kennedy School, Harvard University

COORDINATORS: Antonis Ellinas
Assistant Professor
Department of Social and Political Sciences

Iasonas Lamprianou
Lecturer
Department of Social and Political Sciences

DATE: Monday, 3 December 2012

TIME: 18:30-20:00

PLACE: Anastasios Leventis Building at the University of Cyprus

HALL: B108

*the lecture will be in English

For more information: Dr. Evdokia Pitta, pitta.evdokia@ucy.ac.cy, 22894394

Dr. Quinton Mayne is an assistant professor of public policy at Harvard Kennedy School. He received his Ph.D. from the Department of Politics at Princeton University. His research and teaching interests lie in the area of comparative politics with a focus on public opinion, political participation, and political institutions. He is particularly interested in how the design and reform of democratic political institutions affects how citizens think and act politically.